

Dear Susan Mc Michael

My name is Daniel Lordanic and I'm 12 years old. I go to Nowendoc Public School. Our class is doing poetry and story writing. On Tuesday we do Narratives and On Friday we do the Red, Sea, Charm, Elephant and Fall writing you sent us to do.

Your Sincerely Daniel Lordanic

Today was Friday another boring day of school. I got out of bed and went down stairs. I asked mum if I could have a day off school but the answer was no. I ate my breakfast and packed my bag. I looked up to see what the time was. It was ten minutes to nine. I was running late so I said bye and ran. I ran past the same old tree which I run past every day except for Saturday and Sunday. I ran past the post man and the butchers. I ran up the hill to my school. I could hear the waves pounding against the cliff. I checked what time it was. It was one minute to. I ran as fast as I could. I came to the front door as soon as the bell rang.

I went to my class room and sat down. I could see my friend Jack throwing paper aeroplane around the classroom. Our teacher Mr Andrews came in to the class room and caught Jack throwing paper aeroplanes. Mr Andrews pointed his wand at the plane and said "Inferno". A swirl of fire came out of his wand and caught the plane on fire. Everyone fell silent. Mr Andrews then said "Now I have your attention come outside and I'll show you a new spell. I followed the class and Mr Andrew outside. Mr Andrews said "Today we are learning how to turn and Elephant red." Mr Andrews pointed his wand at the Large, steel lock of the elephant cage and said “Unlock” The Lock of the elephant cage and the lock opened. The elephant ran out straight towards Mr Andrews. Mr Andrews said “Sunburn” The elephant was hit by the charm and fell over. The elephant started to turn dark red. The elephant went berserks and started to run around the cliff top. Everyone was laughing at the elephant. The elephant turned towards the edge of the cliff and ran as fast as it could. Mr Andrews said “Root Trap”. All of a sudden roots of trees started to come out of the ground. The roots were wrapping themselves around the elephant’s legs. The roots of the trees started to crack. The elephant was too strong. The elephant fell off the edge. Mr Andrews ran and the rest of the class including me ran over to the edge of the cliff. The elephant was still in the air. It hit the water with a big splash. The Charm was so powerful that when the elephant hit the water the sea turned red. The waves were even red. Mr Andrew pointed his wand at the sea and said “Repair”. The sea turned back to normal and we all were told to go home because we have seen too much violence. I ran home and told mum about what happened and she said “Well you can do some chores.

Daniel Lordanic